Dear Career Teachers,

A Seminar on Artificial Intelligence (AI) on the Career Path of Accounting and Finance in Hong Kong

The School of Accounting and Finance (AF) of the Hong Kong Polytechnic University will organize a seminar known as “Artificial Intelligence (AI) on the Career Path of Accounting and Finance in Hong Kong” coordinated by the Faculty of Business and Secondary School Relations Section on 3 February 2018 (hereafter named as AF seminar).

The aim of the seminar is to facilitate secondary school students (particularly, S.4 and S.5) to explore their interests in the business disciplines of accounting, finance and financial services before the decision making of their university programme choices. The seminar is a half-day free-of-charge event (from 9:20am – 12:30 pm) with information of the use and the impact of AI on the accounting and finance profession delivered by practitioners. Besides, alumni from AF will share their working experiences in accounting and finance industries with the participants. Each participants will award with an attendance certificate upon successful completion of the seminar. Medium of instruction is in Cantonese.

All S.4 and S.5 students in your school are cordially invited to attend the seminar. Details of the seminar are available at <https://www.polyu.edu.hk/fb/reg/af.php> or through the QR code (see below). Application can achieve online through the above link before 26 January 2018. There are only 200 seats available and are served on a first-come-first-served basis. Late applications after or on 26 January 2018 will not be considered. It is highly appreciated if you could inform students of this seminar and help promoting it.

If you have any enquiries about the activity, please feel free to contact the Faculty of Business at 2766 5084.

Looking forward to meeting your students in the AF seminar.

Yours faithfully,

Dr. YC Chan
Associate Head
